

Hands up: New Zealander celebrates taking the wicket of New Zealand's Roger Tessa at The Oval. He put the bowler on his back yesterday in his first Test match. Photograph by Tom Jenkins

Cairns clubs England

Vic Marks

RENDER OF ENGLAND'S south-east London. The 19-year-old New Zealand batsman is a bit of an enigma. He has not yet made his debut for the national team, but he is already being touted as a potential star. Cairns, who has been playing for England since 1997, is a former Test captain and a former England batsman. He is a former England batsman and a former England batsman. He is a former England batsman and a former England batsman.

to take the series and avoid the possibility of being overtaken by the New Zealand batsman. Cairns, who has been playing for England since 1997, is a former Test captain and a former England batsman. He is a former England batsman and a former England batsman. He is a former England batsman and a former England batsman.

get into line and tried to grab the wicket. Cairns, who has been playing for England since 1997, is a former Test captain and a former England batsman. He is a former England batsman and a former England batsman. He is a former England batsman and a former England batsman.

bowlers and the slow one. Cairns, who has been playing for England since 1997, is a former Test captain and a former England batsman. He is a former England batsman and a former England batsman. He is a former England batsman and a former England batsman.

to give a deserved wicket. Cairns, who has been playing for England since 1997, is a former Test captain and a former England batsman. He is a former England batsman and a former England batsman. He is a former England batsman and a former England batsman.

fully hit the target, sending the ball back into the air. Cairns, who has been playing for England since 1997, is a former Test captain and a former England batsman. He is a former England batsman and a former England batsman. He is a former England batsman and a former England batsman.

Scoreboard

Table with 4 columns: Team, Innings, Runs, Wickets. Shows scores for England and New Zealand in both innings.

Table with 4 columns: Player, Runs, Wickets. Lists individual player performances for both teams.

Vic Marks Oval Day 3 1999

Clipped By:

ianharris
Mon, Apr 13, 2020